- EMPLOYMENT
- World Bank Group – Economist (Washington, DC | 01/2023 – Present)
- Lead IFC’s flagship research on gender data, producing the first global mapping of public and private indicators on women’s economic opportunities and laying the foundation for the IFC’s Private Sector Gender Data Hub, including the design of automated data pipelines and BI dashboards.
  - Developed model-based early warning systems for food insecurity (Afghanistan, Yemen) using econometric and VAR approaches, improving lead times for IDA’s Early Response Financing by up to 12 months.
  - Directed high-level economic diagnostics for the Compact with Africa (CwA), producing quantitative analyses that informed the Germany-Africa Head of State Summit and Annual Meetings.
  - Applied econometrics and machine learning methods (DiD, TMLE, PSM, Random Forest, LightGBM, Gradient Boosting) to evaluate policy and investment impacts, integrating statistical analysis and causal inference design.
  - Conducted applied research on energy and extractives markets, refining IFC’s AIMM framework to assess development impact and linking power market structure to sector outcomes.
  - Built predictive models for IFC’s debt portfolio, applying machine learning (HistGradient Boosting, LightGBM, CatBoost, XGBoost) to identify risks and improve portfolio monitoring.
  - Engaged senior stakeholders across World Bank Group, academia, private sector, and government, translating complex data-driven findings into compelling narratives and strategic policy recommendations.
